

Learn how to plan for wildfires

Join us for a FREE TRAINING
that provides an Introduction to Land Use Planning for Wildfires in Washington

Who Should Attend?

These all-day, in person trainings are open to land use planners, fire marshals, fire chiefs, mitigation specialists, building officials, and other professionals engaged in planning, development review, fire mitigation, and similar activities in Washington.

More Information

Trainings focus on increasing understanding of wildfire vulnerabilities, wildland-urban interface codes, land use planning policies and best practices to reduce wildfire risk, and more. Includes peer learning opportunities and presentations from national, state, and local experts.

Registration

Trainings are free but space is limited. Lunch will be provided. Travel stipends may also be available for eligible attendees.

Visit communitywildfire.org/trainings for more details and to register.

Questions

Email questions to:
training@communitywildfire.org

